

Human services are constantly competing for a piece of the ever shrinking funding pie--it is important to come together with a common voice. The State must make crucial investments in the human services sector and services that help New Yorkers thrive. These investments must include:

- Fully funded contracts, reflective of real cost of service provision
- Salaries and benefits that allow nonprofits to recruit, and retain a high quality staff
- Program funding to meet the growing needs of New Yorkers

Human services are essential. They are the bridges to opportunity in communities, providing critical intervention and ongoing supports.
